“ It has been sometime since I have seen Jess, but if all the people throughout that timeframe in my life, she is the one I kept in contact with. She was a sweet, wonderful girl who could flood a room with light with her infectious smile. Prayers for her family for peace in this difficult time.

“ Isn't it interesting some of the little memories that we keep, like it was just a few days ago. I was at their little house in Dutch Hill and all of the kids were around the table playing, having a good time. Jess could not have been more than three or four years old. I can still see that little face, she was giggling along with the other siblings. I remember thinking, what a free infectious laugh with no inhibitions. But it was more than that, there was a spark about her. I remember thinking to myself, it will be interesting to see what kind of personality she's going to have, cuz there's something unique here.... She was gifted to have 2 strong, loving, God honoring parents to help guide her. As her aunt I am so proud of her. That in spite of struggles and challenges in her life, as all of our children have, she honored her God. She carried with her throughout her life that very special free spirit I saw in her that day so many years ago. She has left a legacy beyond just herself. For those of us who were fortunate enough to have been a part of her life, we've been able to see what a strong, God honoring, vibrant personality that little girl grew into, and the many many lives that she touched. Oh Jess, I will miss your spark!
